

Appendix Four

This appendix contains a translation of those portions of the work of Auguste Armand-Hugon and E.A. Rivoire, Gli Esule Valdesi in Svizzera 1686-1690 (Torre Pellice, Torino, Italy 1974) (Vaudois Exiles in Switzerland, 1686-1690), which list Cardon ancestral relatives living during the period mentioned in the title. In making this translation I have left intact, so far as possible, the wording and structure used by the authors. Particularly noteworthy is the use of the European form of dating. "5.3.87" means March 5, 1687, not May 3, 1687. Place name abbreviations were generally left intact but in the abbreviation list the full name was revised to the more easily recognized spelling of places in Switzerland and Germany. Italian place name spellings were left unchanged. Names and abbreviations of months were changed to English usage. Most footnotes are by the authors, although occasionally where the authors had a double reference to the same note, a second note was inserted. Some explanatory notes relative to translation uncertainty were added. Throughout the authors' work the abbreviation "fi." was used to indicate both "figlio" = son and "figlia" = dau. When names indicated sex, I translated the abbreviation as "son" or "dau." Where I wasn't sure, I made my best guess; thus, e.g. Prosper, Ondirion and Ulrich may not have the proper sex indication. The authors included an appendix which enumerates additional names and data encountered after the basic work was completed. I have included these names along with those for each family in the regular section, indicating the individuals' numbers from the authors' appendix by the prefatory letter A (e.g. "A445")

N.B. [Authors Note translated] With respect to the archives and libraries in other Swiss centers, in which one might expect to find documents relating to this work, the authors are indebted to the courtesy of the librarians and archivists for determining the existence or not of such documents. This threshold inquiry, prior to our research in the field, revealed that at Vevey, Morat, Binningin, Aarau, Brugg, Chur and Winterthur no documents existed concerning the Vaudois in this period; that at Schaffhausen the civil acts of state [were recorded] beginning only in 1750; that some documents of Le Locle, which might be of some interest, had been removed to Paris at the Archives of French Protestantism, and were destroyed in 1943 by the German S.S. and thus no longer available. The archives of Basil were considered to have been adequately explored by Eynard (see Published Sources, nn. 3, 4, 5).
