 Smith, Thomas X.

Cardon, Paul, first counselor in the Bishopric of Benson Ward, Cache Stake, is the son of Philip Cardon and Martha Mary Tourin, and was born in Italy, in the valleys of the Waldenses, Dec. 28, 1839, where he passed his boyhood days. In the year 1851 (Feb. 7th) he was baptised into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints by Elder George D. Keaton. The Cardon family was one of the first to join the Church in that country. Shortly after joining the Church the family decided to emigrate to Utah, and in February, 1854, they left their native land and arrived in Salt Lake City in October of the same year. Paul drove an ox team across the plains. He settled in Mound Fort, Weber county, Utah, where he remained for one year. Thence he moved to the settlement known as Marriotts Ward, in the same county, where he lived until the early spring of 1860. In the fall of 1856 he was ordained an Elder and was set apart as an acting Teacher and home missionary. He spent the fall and winter in Echo Canyon and Lost Creek, building fortifications to stay the progress of Johnston's army. He was a member of Capt. Lot Smith's company most of the time. On the 16th day of March, 1857, he was married to Susannah Goudin. In the spring of 1858, when the people were called upon to leave their homes and go south, he sent his wife and child to Spanish Fork, Utah county, and he was detailed to stand guard over property in Ogden, Weber county, under the direction of General C. W. West. In the fall of 1859 he went to Cache valley and there selected property and started to build a home. In the spring of 1860 he moved his family to Cache county, where he has lived ever since. Shortly after arriving in Cache valley he was selected as one of the famous body of so-called minute men. This company of minute men was organized for the purpose of protecting themselves and families against the attacks of the Indians. He held a commission, signed by the governor, as first lieutenant of cavalry. In December, 1862, he was ordained a Seventy, and at the same time set apart as an acting teacher in the Fourth Ward of Logan and also as a home missionary. In the year of 1868 he was chosen and set apart as one of the seven presidents of the 64th quorum of Seventy. In 1887 he was compelled to go into exile, where he remained for about five years. This left him in financial straits and he was obliged to sell his home and property in order to pay his debts. In 1892 he left Logan and went to Benson Ward to build up another home for himself and family. Feb. 10, 1895, he was ordained a High Priest by Apostle Marriner W. Merrill and set apart as first counselor to Bishop Henry W. Ballard, of Benson Ward, which position he still holds. In 1899 he was called on a mission to Switzerland and Italy for the purpose of gathering genealogy; in this labor he was very successful and returned home in March, 1901. Elder Cardon's life has been a very busy one and he has helped build up Cache valley from its beginning, having been public spirited and held many public offices in Logan city and Cache county. He is the father of a large family, fifteen of his children are still living.

Heart Throbs of the West

They were quick to see the similarity of conditions in Cache Valley and their native northern Italy, and as they were both familiar with all of the branches of silk culture they decided to try it here. Mr. Cardon sent to France for mulberry seeds. These were planted and the trees grew well and were the first ones to be grown in northern Utah. When they were large enough to produce leaves, Mr. Cardon sent to France for eggs of the silk worm. These eggs were hatched by putting them in a bag and keeping the bag warm by hanging them around their necks. These worms grew and others were raised and when the supply was sufficient they began to reel the silk. Mr. Cardon made the reel and Mrs. Cardon did the reeling. It was the twisted reel and was much better than the flat silk. The silk was sent to Salt Lake City to be woven and was found to be of such a high quality that President Brigham Young called Susanna on a mission to Salt Lake City to teach others to reel silk. She left a baby a year old and six other small children and spent three months in Salt Lake City, without pay, in this work.

In 1878, the Relief Society of Logan decided to try and raise their own silk and Mrs. Cardon furnished the eggs of the worm and taught classes of young women to care for the worms and sell the silk. This was all done without any pay, but as service to her Church and community.

The biggest and best worms were saved to let the moth come out to lay more eggs, and this silk was used to make coarser clothes. The other cocoons were placed in tubs of hot water to loosen the silk and was then reeled into hanks. Mrs. Cardon's silk was of a very high quality and she received medals for the excellence of her silk from New Jersey, California, Chicago and St. Louis.

Mrs. Cardon gave over two rooms for the silk industry and kept at this work for about 15 years, when it was found to be no longer practical and was discontinued.—Cache County.

On March 16, 1857, Susanna married Paul Cardon, who with his parents, three brothers and two sisters, arrived in 1854. The Cardon family had settled at Bingham's Fort, Ogden. Upon hearing of the arrival of the handcart company, Paul and his brother Philip went to Salt Lake and brought Susanna and some of the others to Bingham's Fort where they assisted in building a crude dugout for them to live in. The Cardon family understood how to produce flax and hemp, from which rope and cloth were made. Susanna helped with the weaving, with making thread which was sold in Salt Lake at 25c a knot. The demand soon became so great that she could not supply it.

Six sons and five daughters were born to Susanna and Paul Cardon. When Johnston's Army came, the Saints moved south and Susanna accompanied them, carrying a small babe in her arms and walking much of the way. In the fall of 1859, Paul Cardon was called by President Young to go and help in the settlement of Cache Valley. Paul returned to Ogden in the spring of 1860, and brought the family with him, and they spent the remainder of their lives in its growth and development.

During the first spring in Logan, they sowed 40 bushels of wheat, but reaped only 7 bushels, on account of the grasshoppers. In 1880, the Cardons built their large, beautiful home, located one-half block west of Main Street on First North. It was used for a hotel and named "The Cache Valley House." They continued in this for 10 years, making friends with many people who came to Logan.

Susanna was always very attentive in the performance of her Church duties. For many years she was an officer and teacher in the Relief Society, and was the second or third member to join in Logan.

After the death of her husband on February 12, 1915, Susanna spent the remainder of her life living with her daughters, always keeping herself engaged in house-work, knitting, quilting, etc. She died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah A. Turner, at Logan, December 8, 1920. At the time of her death she had 60 grandchildren, and 45 great-grandchildren to revere her name. Thus she lived and thus she died—one of God's noblest daughters. —Lucy Cardon Merrill
